'Wally' Granted Divorce Effective in Six Months

Brief Hearing Frees King Edward's Friend Who May Become His Bride, If Not His Queen; Evidence of Misconduct Produced.

By The Associated Press

IPSWICH Eng Oct 27—Mrs Wallis Simpson fascinating Baltimore born friend of King Edward of England won a divorce in a brief hearing at historic Ipswich assizes today

Justice Sir John Anthony Hawke announced a decree nisi after hearing a few minutes of formal testimony

Mrs Simpson

Costs of the case were charged to the defendant Ernest Aldrich Simpson who did not contest the divorce

The decree will be made absolute within six months

The whole hearing lasted just 17 minutes Mrs Simpson was on the stand for 14 minutes

She was questioned carefully by her attorney Norman Birkett to bring out the facts of the most celebrated divorce case in the United Kingdom since the stirring days of Henry VIII

She produced three letters which she handed to the judge

Her evidence alleged that her ships broker husband a subject of the king was guilty of misconduct at the Hotel De Paris a Bray near Maidenhead Berkshire at the end of July

A bellboy a waiter and a clerk identified the hotel register to show the alleged misconduct

Mrs Simpson in a trim blue suit with a polkadot blouse and a smart blue waifer hat at a jaunty angle was completely at ease on the witness stand

No Nervousness

She showed not the slightest trace of nerves

At 2 40 p m a little more than an hour after she had reached the assizes her automobile roared away from the court precincts

She had left the courtroom even before Mr Justice Hawke handed down his decision

Known as a stickler for correct court procedure the judge was stern both with Counselor Birkett one of England's most able lawyer and with Mrs Simpson's other attorney Walter Frampton

On the other hand Mr Justice Hawke paid not the slightest heed to the svelte plaintiff studying the papers in the case and devoting his attention to the lawyers without even so much as looking at Mrs Simpson once

Finally with a resigned gesture the celebrated jurist flung the papers aside on his desk and announced

Very well a decree nisi

There were rumors entirely without substantiation that Mr Justice Hawke had objected to hearing the case feeling that his court might be suffering an imposition

All Doors Closed

When the case was over all the doors to the courtroom were locked for a few minutes and even the attorneys in the proceedings were unable to leave

Outside a police car pulled up across the road while the Simpson automobile rolled out of a court yard gate and sped away

Occupants of the machine held newspapers up in front of the windows to prevent Mrs Simpson from being photographed

The former Baltimore debutante was already standing in the witness box when reporters and spectators were permitted to enter the carefully watched courtroom

Not once during all her testimony did she turn and face the crowd

To millions of Britons going about their normal affairs no inkling of the potential importance of the case seeped through the self imposed censorship of the British press

Only a comparatively few in court circles and the upper strata of English society were aware of the case at all Those few were gravely concerned

May Become His Bride

The fact that Mrs Simpson for more than two years has been the almost constant companion of Britain's 42 year old bachelor monarch and as likely as not may become the bride of the strong willed Edward six months hence made it one of the most momentous divorces in history

Not since Henry VIII divorced

G. O. P. WOULD GIVE ALL JOBS, SAYS KNOX

Landon Running Mate Stumps Indiana After Labor Appeal in Dayton.

By The Associated Press

ABOARD KNOX CAMPAIGN TRAIN Oct 27—Col Frank Knox Republican vice presidential nominee headed into Indiana today to wage a final campaign for that state's presidential vote

Knox traveled west from Ohio where last night in Dayton he called on labor to take the Republican [illegible] of the way to real recovery and work for all

Singling out the Roosevelt administration's social security act for special attack Knox declared it would take billions in taxes from working men and make the fund a plaything of federal boondoggling

A pension of $1 59 a day, Knox said was in prospect for the worker of 35 who contributes $43 a year for 30 years He called the act unworkable and unfair" and said the workingmen themselves reject it."

Knox referred to his Democratic rival, Vice President John N Garner, as a "missing" candidate

Radio listeners would think "that the second man on the Roosevelt ticket is Henry Wallace, that Republican hero of the war against little pigs, or Mr. (Harold) Ickes, who after trying out nearly all the parties there are, has found his proper place in the new deal party," the newspaper publisher declared.

DEMOCRAT TO GIVE LANDON TALK HERE

Kentuckian To Bring Jeffersonian Message to Marion Wednesday Night

Jeffersonian Democratic leaders hurling charges that the new deal is not representative of true Democratic principles today swung their campaign guns on Marion with the announcement that Harvey H Smith of Covington Ky will give a Jeffersonian Democratic speech Wednesday night at the Central Junior High school at 8 o'clock

The speaker has been a life long Democrat served years ago as the youngest Democratic member of the Kentucky constitutional convention later was a Democratic candidate for governor of South Dakota and was state chairman of the Democratic committee of that state

He was President Wilson's personal attorney practiced law with Senator James A Reed of Missouri as associate counsel and has taken part in Democratic campaigns with Alfred E. Smith former governor of New York and former candidate for president, and with Senator Reed

Frank Kaables of Columbus chairman of the Jeffersonian state committee in making arrangements for the Marion meeting, asserted the current campaign is the first in which Mr. Smith ever supported a Republican. He is now campaigning for Governor Landon, Republican nominee for president charging continuation of the present administration is a menace to the American form of government.

Safety Engineer Addresses More Than 100 in Automobile Drivers' School

If all the people and all the property in Marion county were destroyed the resulting damage in life and money would not quite equal the toll taken by traffic accidents over the country in a year

Thus did Ralph Moore of Columbus safety engineer in the state highway department bring home to more than 100 persons at the Junior Chamber of Commerce drivers school last night the need for safety education

Mr Moore inventor of a motorists reaction testing machine which was loaned to the police of Nova Scotia at the request of the Canadian government was brought here through M F Baldwin secretary of the Marion Auto club who was in charge of last night's meeting

Highlights of Mr Moore's talk were From the analysis of more than 30 000 accidents the state highway department has discovered most of them occur on wide straight highways where drivers are tempted to speed and forget caution If you want to know what your car will do read about it in the manufacturer's catalogue and don't make your own speed tests the modern driver knows only two kinds of car trouble engine and tire never drive over 40 miles an hour at night it requires the average driver three fourths of a second to move his foot from the accelerator to the brakes and in that time at 60 miles an hour a car will travel nearly 60 feet and usually cannot be stopped for 300 feet.

He made a plea for more courtesy among drivers and said that the mildest mannered man in the world becomes a bully behind the wheel of his car

There are three things which will stop accidents he said the building of safety into the highways the enforcement of laws by police and the education of the driver He closed his talk by asking the class to practice the golden rule in driving Drive as you would have the other fellow drive

Following Mr Moore's address,

PLEADS FOR LIBERTY

Tells Philadelphia Throng New Deal Wields Same Ax Which Has Killed Freedom in Old World.

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH Oct 27 — Gov Alf M Landon brought his presidential campaign to this steel center today for a night address that aids said would deal with civil service and the spoils system

A throng jammed Pittsburgh's Pennsylvania station to greet Landon as his special train pulled in at 9 30 a m Many in the crowd wore straw hats labeled young Republicans

On hand to welcome the Kansas governor were western Pennsylvania Republican leaders

Mrs Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms of Illinois was among those in the governor's party on the trip from Philadelphia where he spoke last night

Goes To His Hotel

The governor stayed aboard his train more than an hour after its arrival then went to a hotel where he might rest during the day prior to his address

The Republican nominee will speak in Duquesne garden at 9 p m (EST) concluding the personal drive for his native Pennsylvania's 36 electoral votes which he began in Philadelphia last night with the assertion the new deal wields the same ax which has destroyed the liberties of so much of the old world

A throng that overflowed the 18,000 capacity convention hall, where President Roosevelt was renominated roared its applause as Landon said new deal waste and extravagance violate the Constitution and must be paid for by the little fellow

Hits at Spoils

Use of public money for political purposes Landon said has been open and impudent He laid responsibility for the most sinister political machine of our history upon 'one man—and one man alone—the President of the United States

Landon told his hearers an unbalanced budget inflation of the

currency delegation of power to the chief executive destruction of local self government were steps tending toward dictatorship

Recalling that President Roosevelt as a candidate for election in 1932 had said taxes are paid in the sweat of every man who labors Landon said as a candidate for reelection in 1936 he would have us believe that taxes are paid only out of the coffers of the rich

Just how forgetful does the President think we are? Landon demanded

Right First Time'

"The record proves the President was right the first time the bulk of the money always comes from the men and women who labor. It is the little fellow who pays

Immediately after concluding his address the candidate returned to his sunflower special where he appeared smilingly confident as he chatted with associates before retiring for the overnight trip here

The crowd roared its response in convention hall as Landon showing slight trace of the hoarseness that had been affecting him, demanded

'Who is going to pay the bill for all this spending?'

"The people," "Roosevelt," and other cries were heard.

"We are," said Landon

"Who Pays Taxes"

"Who is paying the 12 billions which this administration has already collected?'

The crowd joined in the shout "we are," and when Landon asked "Who is going to put an end to this extravagance?' the shout "we are' reverberated through the flag-decked hall

Opening with the declaration, "the fundamental issue is the preservation of the Constitution and the American way of life," Landon told his hearers" we must decide if we want a free and popular government or a government which concentrates [illegible] power in the chief executive."

two motion pictures were shown. They were obtained by Mr Baldwin through the American Automobile association.

The first entitled Everybody's Business was a graphic portrayal of the common violations of the good driving and showed the costly results of such recklessness. An interesting feature was a 12 mile race through a crowded city staged by police in which one car paid no heed to stop streets laws or courtesy and the other car obeyed all rules and never exceeded 40 miles an hour. The reckless driver crossed town three minutes ahead of the same motorist saving 17 seconds a mile but endangering lives and property every inch of the way.

The picture gave the audience a glimpse of all the care and accuracy that goes into the making of an automobile and closed with the warning that no car is any safer than the driver.

The importance of tires and some of the advances in their scientific construction was the topic of the second film. It stressed the point that the average tire usually skids at any speed on wet pavement stops and at high speeds will skid even on a dry road. At a 50 mile an hour speed the pressure inside a tire will increase through heat and friction from 30 to 40 pounds often more than twice the normal pressure.

Conditions Differ

Sheriff Fred F Miller who has accepted an invitation to be the fourth instructor for the school talked on the differences between county and state roads pointing out that what is safe driving on a hard surfaced and well marked highway is reckless on a gravel county road. He urged extreme caution on the unmarked country intersections where a large number of Marion county mishaps occur.

Other instructors for the school which is held every Monday night at 8 in the Junior Chamber rooms above 131 East Center street are J M Kratzer patrolman in charge of the Marion sub-station of the state highway police and Police Chief William P Marks who attended last night's class but took no active part and Mr Baldwin.

Mr Kratzer next week's teacher plans to bring a first aid team composed of five state highway patrolmen from this district who will stage a 30 minute demonstration of emergency treatment of injured person. He explained that they will use the regulation first aid equipment which all highway patrolmen carry to all accidents however small. The patrol will answer all calls from accidents including those which result in only slight property damage he said. In addition to the team he hopes to have as speaker a high ranking officer in the patrol probably from the Findlay office which controls 22 counties in northern Ohio.

Joe R. Roby chairman of the traffic committee in charge of the school said anyone completing the four-lesson course will be given a certificate of attendance certifying the person as a safe and sane driver. Later on this winter he hopes to obtain nationally known automobile and traffic experts for the school jective debate on the national foreign policy.

The situation inside the Spanish capital was described as desperate by American newspaper correspondents taken into custody by Fascists during a running machine gun battle Sunday when their Socialist escorts fled.

It is quite possible the militia will run from Madrid when it is attacked the newspapermen told their American colleagues.

Madrid can be taken within two days.

Aircraft Battle

Insurgent aircraft machine gunned Madrid today but confined their fire largely to government antiaircraft batteries.

Five Fascist planes and government artillery fought a sharp duel when the attacking craft circled over the capital in broad daylight.

Inhabitants rushed to windows to watch the spectacular exchange of machine gun fire as three insurgent bombers and two pursuit planes roared over the city taking government antiaircraft batteries.

Part of their fire sprayed into the streets but there were no casualties on either side.

The planes reconnoitered over the city for a while and then sped away. They returned again circled out of range of the antiaircraft fire and then disappeared.

Women Run Street Cars

Grim lipped women volunteers piloted street cars in Madrid as peoples front organizations speeded the roundup of all available man power to hurl against the Fascist advance on the capital.

General mobilization must be ordered thundered leaders of the Spanish Workers union cheering on the streams of recruits marching forth to bolster the war weary front line militia.

Thousands of volunteers were organized into battalions of reservists and trench diggers. Trucks rumbled through the city throughout the night taking materials for the construction of a death necklace of concrete machine gun pillboxes around the city.

Catherine of Aragon and married the illfated Anne Boleyn in 1533 thereby completing the rupture with the church of Rome they said had any severance of marital ties held such far reaching possibilities.

Again and again Edward has stressed his right to private happiness. He has made it clear that his life as King Edward belongs to his peoples but that his own life when duties or affairs of state are done belongs to himself Edward Windsor alone.

Farthinking advisors and subjects of the king wonder how the empire would react to having a twice divorced woman however charming as legal consort to its king.

They dread the thought that the strong minded Edward might abdicate in order to save the wife of his choice from any embarrassment and leave himself free to enjoy the happy unfettered existence of her company—possibly retiring to his beloved E P ranch in the foothills of the Canadian rockies.

Bible Institute Speaker Discusses Book of Mark

The Book of Mark was the study topic at the Lutheran Sunday School Teachers institute held last night at the Emanuel Lutheran church and attended by 91 Lutherans from Marion and five surrounding counties.

Dr G C Gast of Capital university in Columbus gave a resume of Mark's life a history of his gospel and the purpose in writing it.

He said it is thought that the Last Supper was held at the home in Jerusalem of the mother of Mark and that his father probably was dead at the time. Mark was not one of the apostles he said. Paul and Barnabas took him on their first missionary journey and at Perga in Pamphilia he left them and returned to Jerusalem. Later however he was with Paul during the latter's first and second imprisonments and was also with Peter in the East.

Tradition Dr Gast said says that Mark founded the Church at Alexandria in Egypt and that he died and was buried there. In 815 Venetian sailors stole his relics and took them to Venice where they were buried under the cathedral of St Mark.

Written for Romans

Discussing the gospel written by Mark Dr Gast said it was written in Rome about 68 A D after the death of Peter and was written for non Jews for Romans. It does not give the genealogy of Jesus as this would not have appealed to the Romans and the fact that it was written for the Romans explains the frequent use of Latin words according to Dr Gast.

Mark's purpose in writing the gospel was to show how Christ particularly by His works showed Himself as the mighty Helper and Savior Dr Gast said and its distinctive features are that it is a gospel of events and action that it contained only four parables and 18 miracles records more cures of demoniacs than the other gospels includes little details other writers omitted and treats Jesus rather briefly.

Rev S C Long of Waldo in a talk on The Objective of the Teacher said in part: The aim of a teacher is to bring to the pupil the truth of God's word and all of teaching means leading to Christ. Teaching the truths of Christ will cure the evils of today he said.

Rev J W Schillinger pastor of Emanuel church in a short devotional address on 'He Is My Light' spoke in part as follows:

Without Jesus your hearts are filled with darkness. Sin is there and sin means darkness. Sin separates you from God the only source of true light. Sin means death and death is the blackest of all darkness. Sin covers you with the darkness of despair of death of hell. God the Father sent His only begotten Son Jesus Christ into the world to be your light. He can be your light only by taking your sin away. In order to do this He died on the cross. His blood is the power which blots out all our transgressions. Every day Satan tempts you to doubt this precious truth so that he may keep you in sin. Hence it is necessary for you to be reminded every day of this central truth of the whole Christian religion. If I could see all of you every day the greatest service that I could render to you would be to tell you every day that Jesus died for you to take our sins away and every day that would bring you new light and life.

Task of Teachers

As Sunday school teachers it is our task to teach the Bible to our class. Paul the Bible is a Book of [illegible] and mysteries. It is a Book which is covered with darkness. It is a Book which none of us can understand with his own powers. No, even the wisest man in the world can explain its mysteries. But when Jesus the Sun of righteousness shines upon that Book then all its pages become plain. Teachers when you teach the Sacred Scripture to your classes teach it always as it is illuminated by the light which shines upon it from Calvary's cross. Then you can make no mistakes. You will teach every lesson rightly and every lesson will bring the light from heaven into the very souls of all of your pupils.

Coughlin Brands Roosevelt Hirer of Scab Labor

Refers to WPA Men Who Should Be Demanding $150 a Month

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND O Oct 27—Rev Charles E Coughlin invaded New England today for the second time of the presidential campaign after telling a Cleveland audience his President Roosevelt was the greatest employer of scab labor in all history.

He said he referred to the WPA which he characterized as a great army of scab labor. WPA workers he said should be demanding $150 a month.

When Fr Coughlin declared that WPA workers were paid [illegible] a month a voice from the gallery of Cleveland's huge public hall shouted and they want some of that back.

Now I understand why the scab editors support the scab President the radio priest said in resuming his address.

The great scab army has had a prevailing wage paid to it. They call it a new deal but it's the same new deal that was handed out to the poor Negroes in the cotton fields of the south before the days of Lincoln. There's no man who can support himself and his wife on $50 a month nor on $100 a month.

The priest was greeted here by a deputy sheriff attempting to serve a subpoena in the suit of John H O'Donnell of Pittsburgh seeking to oust Coughlin as head of the National Union for Social Justice and obtain an accounting of the organization's funds.

The deputy Walter Klewel scuffled with detectives guarding the priest. Police shouldered the deputy against a wall while Fr Coughlin caught a taxicab. Klewel claimed that he touched Fr Coughlin with the papers and therefore the cleric was legally served.

Vatican Disapproves of Coughlin Attack

By The Associated Press

VATICAN CITY Oct 27—Rev Charles E Coughlin's manner of attack against President Roosevelt it was reported authoritatively today is thoroughly disapproved in the Vatican.

The prelate pointed out that any open action by the Vatican at this moment on the eve of the American presidential election might be construed as meddling in politics.

STORK DERBY LEADER LAGS IN THE STRETCH

TORONTO Oct 27—Mrs Lily Kenny fell from her pedestal as Toronto's ace child-bearer today.

The dozen children she claims to have borne in the last 10 years shrank to nine as a search of the official records was made and the cry went up from the Kenny camp we've been robbed.

Her counsel I F Weldon said:

Mrs Kenny has lost out as sole winner of the Millar mothers marathon on a foul. She has had more children than any other Toronto woman but now she's dropped back in a tie with other mothers on a pure technicality.

The technicality was a ruling by the provincial registrar general that no belated registrations will be accepted from Millar contest entries. This bars the registration of two children Mrs Kenny says were born to her in 1930 and 1931.

The top ranking mothers found the $500 000 contest more of a free for all race than ever.

Vet Doctor Shot by Ex-Patient Holding Grudge

Prisoner Says Physician's Unsterilized Needle Gave Him Incurable Disease

By The Associated Press

DAYTON O Oct 27—His body the target of a gun burst Dr Edward Clark [illegible] veterans hospital physician [illegible] while police held a man they quoted as admitting the ambush because Dr Clark allegedly impregnated him with an incurable disease through an unsterilized needle.

Detective Sergt G F Croft said the man registered as Sylvester Schaeffer [illegible] of Cincinnati told him he came to Dayton 10 days ago to kill Dr Clark who had treated him in 1920.

The shooting occurred near the south gate to the National Military Home in West Dayton last night.

Croft declared the suspect calmly admitted watching for the young physician until spotting him from a nearby beer garden he ran to confront him.

You'll never do that to anyone else Croft quoted him. Dr Clark protesting I didn't do it [illegible] fell after two shots were fired and collapsed into unconsciousness.

Others who followed as Schaeffer stood over his victim according to G L Powers who told police the suspect had spent much of the afternoon in his cafe seated near a front window.

Suddenly he jumped up and ran out Powers said. The next thing I heard was the shot.

Dr Clark was wounded in the back abdomen and legs and because of his condition surgeons delayed temporarily any attempt to remove the bullets.

Schaeffer was captured by Millard Merrill chief floris at the soldiers home almost immediately after the shooting.

Sergt Croft said in event Dr Clark died murder charges would be filed.

He said Governor Davey had withheld recognition of the typographical union on his newspaper in Kent had failed to speed up workmen's compensation payments and sought by crafty deception to take credit for protecting Ohio's banks from prison made goods.

The governor Bricker said has been attempting to garner votes by not only misrepresenting my labor record through distribution of unsigned and false propaganda but by misrepresenting his own record and posing as a staunch friend of the laboring man.

Meanwhile Governor Davey also was speaking at a Democratic rally in Dayton last night striking back verbally by calling Bricker a professional job holder.

Davey characterized Bricker as a hungry job seeker who always led a soft life and never worried about his bread and butter. Davey further said:

As soon as he left law school he began looking for a job. He could not make a living. As soon as Attorney General C C Crabbe author of the prohibition law was elected my opponent was after him for a job.

He got one as an assistant attorney general and kept it for four years. Then he went back to law practice and couldn't make a living. He continued to be a hungry job seeker.

Named To Commission

Former Gov Myers Y Cooper then appointed him to the utilities commission where he had a job for four years before he was elected attorney general.

That's the sum total of his experience.

He's always led a soft life and never worried about his bread and butter. He knows nothing about the experiences of the farmer and never had to meet a payroll.

He's just a professional politician and job seeker pure and simple. He's a first class yes-man. He's bossed everybody in Ohio and promised job to almost everybody.

Davey mixed with his denunciation of Bricker criticism of Governor Landon. He said that when Landon appeared in Columbus recently Bricker promised if elected to give Ohio the same kind of government Kansas has. That means more taxes no old age pensions a crippled school system and that troops will be sent to quell labor disputes Davey declared.

He also spoke yesterday at Springfield Troy Circleville Washington C H and Sidney. At Springfield he said Landon sent troops into the coal fields to break a strike where the men received 90 cents a day for working 10 hours.

He predicted President Roosevelt would carry Ohio by 250 000 and added he wouldn't be far behind.

Your Health

BY DR. R. S. COPELAND

Hereditary Diseases.

Many persons are in constant fear of one disease or another. When questioned, they explain that some member of the family died from the dreaded disease. This is an unnecessary and really foolish fear.

Though heredity plays a part in the transmission of disease, it does not follow by any means that because some member of the family had cancer, for example, you will have it. Nor does it mean that if one or both parents died at a very early age the offspring will be denied a long span of life.

Too often, vague and unimportant pains are mistakenly laid at the door of some hereditary disease. For example, a man who for many years suffered from so-called "anginal pain" around his heart had a son who developed similar pains. Though the father actually suffered from heart disease and died from it, the son had a strong and healthy heart. But the son was sure his own heart was weak and diseased. It was only after several visits to different doctors and much effort on the part of the medical men that the poor chap finally was convinced he was not on the way to the grave.

Do not be misled by the common belief that if a certain disease is present in your family you ultimately will have it. The hereditary influence rarely exerts its evil effect within one generation. But this does not mean that certain symptoms and complaints must be entirely ignored. That is going to the other extreme.

It is true that certain blood disturbances often run in a given family. But modern science has so perfected the treatment of these diseases that fear is unnecessary. But neglect is dangerous and it is wise to keep in mind that proper treatment will insure good health and long life.

If everyone who feared the influence of hereditary factors would consult with the family doctor, great good would result. There should be periodic check-ups of the general health—heart, lungs, digestive tract, blood and blood pressure. If this rule were followed, there would be little need of worry. It is better to detect disease in its early stages than to endure the fear of its consequences.

Fear! How dreadful to wake up in the night to worry over something that may happen! Share your fear with your doctor and the chances are a hundred to one that you will find it is groundless.

Dr. Copeland is glad to answer inquiries from readers who send an addressed, stamped envelope with their questions. Address all letters to Dr. Copeland in care of this newspaper.

To Get the Best Cough Remedy, Mix It at Home

Quicker Relief. Big Saving. So Easy. No Cooking.

This famous recipe is used by millions of housewives, because there is no other way to obtain such a dependable, effective remedy for coughs that start from colds. It's so easy to mix—a child could do it.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, a concentrated compound of Norway Pine, famous for its effect on throat and bronchial membranes.

Then make a syrup by stirring two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. It's no trouble at all, and takes but a moment. No cooking needed.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of cough remedy, far superior to anything you could buy ready-made, and you get four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and is very pleasant—children love it.

You'll be amazed by the way it takes hold of severe coughs, giving you double-quick relief. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the inflamed membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

THE MARION STAR ENDORSES MOUSER

Among the many newspapers giving Grant E. Mouser Jr. their endorsement is The Marion Star. Under date of October 20th it said: "In Grant Mouser's previous service as a Member of the House of Representatives he not only gave close attention to the interests of his district but was a consistent supporter of progressive and constructive measures relating to the nation's welfare."

Newspapers generally have endorsed Grant Mouser because of the outstanding record he made in Congress. During his second term he received the unusual distinction of being appointed in charge of the private calendar which considers millions of dollars worth of claims against the government. His fairness, his impartiality and his ability placed him in a position to be a leader in Congress if he had not been defeated in the landslide of 1932.

Beware of Last Minute Mud Slinging Tactics Which the Opposition Are Using To Overcome the Tide of Ballots in Favor of Grant E. Mouser Jr.

He was never absent from Congress except during the Lame Duck Session of 1932 when he was excused by unanimous vote to return to Marion due to his father's illness.

He was paired upon all legislation in his absence so that he did not miss any important roll calls.

As pointed out by a Democratic newspaper at Bucyrus, Ohio, he was on the job 365 days a year, and the many hundreds of recipients of benefits obtained through his personal service bear testimony to the indefatigable energy of Grant Mouser.

The voters of the Eighth District are too intelligent to be mislead by eleventh hour political propaganda.

Red Cross Advance Gift Campaign Is Under Way

J. W. Llewellyn Named Chairman of Special Committee; State Chairman Speaks Here.

The special gifts committee of the Marion county Red Cross chapter started out today pledged to raise 50 per cent of the 1937 budget of $5,892.10 and spurred to enthusiasm by a dinner meeting of the executive and roll call committees held last night at the Hotel Marion at which Judge Henry J Robison of Columbus state Red Cross chairman was the principal speaker.

"Join the Red Cross" will be the 1936 campaign slogan from Nov 16 to 26.

Annually the Red Cross roll call starts on Armistice day and continues through Thanksgiving but this year due to the factory drive and the Y M C A campaign which will close Wednesday the chapter withheld opening its drive until Nov 16 at which time the efforts to raise the goal will be concentrated in a 10-day appeal.

Committee Members

J W Llewellyn appointed chairman of the special gifts committee by Gene Hill who is roll call chairman has the following Marion residents on his committee: F L Alexander Harry F Marsworth Mrs James P Smith L Paul Pachman Mrs John T McNamara Mrs Francis Hurst, Mrs F R Barnthouse, C E Curtis Miss Mary Kuil Rev Carl V Roop of the First United Brethren church L H Larsen C R Banfill Frank Kelle and Lewis M Farels.

The special gifts committee will make its first report at a luncheon Friday at 11:45 a m at the Hotel Marion.

Ed C Watters chapter chairman presided at the meeting at which Miss Emma Tyler field representative from the national headquarters in Washington D C was a guest.

The budget for 1937 has been pared to the very lowest possible figure and is considerably under the approximately $8,400 asked last year, it was pointed out.

Judge Robison sounded the theme of the meeting when he said "This year should be a banner year so far as roll call is concerned, when you consider what the Red Cross has done in Ohio in the last year, particularly in disaster work during the spring floods.

"The roll call is essential to an effective program in disaster service" he said pointing out that of the 150 disasters dealt with by the Red Cross last year the flood relief drive which was counted as one disaster was only the sixth since the World war in which nation-wide help has been asked. The other 149 disasters of last year were met with funds raised in the roll call.

Judge Robison who until last May was judge of the juvenile court of Portage county an office which he held for 15 years reviewed briefly the work of the Red Cross in Portage county particularly in public health nursing service. He spoke of the work the Red Cross can do among children who neglected form habits over which they have no control and cannot break.

He mentioned that last year Ohio had a 326,000 membership in the roll call and that this year the goal is 360,000 with an attempt to reach 400,000 which would raise Ohio from fifth to first place in Red Cross membership.

Recalls Flood Work

Miss Tyler speaking extemporaneously urged the workers that in the roll call they should impress upon prospective members that the money given in the flood relief drive was not to the Red Cross but was given directly to the flood victims with the national Red Cross acting only as the distributing agency and that contributions made to the flood relief were entirely separate from the roll call. She related her personal experience in aiding victims in Pittsburgh and of the heroic work of the Red Cross in rehabilitating 19,000 families at an expenditure of approximately $1,500,000.

Rev Lawrence A Wood of Trinity Baptist church roll call publicity chairman outlined a campaign set up to make Marion city and county "Red Cross conscious" during the 10 days of the campaign.

Mr Hill in a short talk, expressed his confidence in the success of the drive based on the outpouring of $2,400 by Marion city and county residents in response to the flood relief call in the spring.

He stressed that only 50 cents of every membership whether it be for $5 or $1 will go to national headquarters the remainder to stay in Marion county for Red Cross work by the chapter.

TODAY—Germany and Italy Should Stand Side by Side.

Germany and Italy, meaning Hitler and Mussolini are said to be working together closely. They are to control Austria and Hitler's share in the control might not please that intensely Catholic country too well. Germany's influence will increase along the Danube. Germany and Italy combining make that possible with nobody inclined to fight about it. In return for recognizing Italian sovereignty in Ethiopia Hitler is to have important Ethiopian concessions.

It will be interesting to see what two dictators walking through Europe side by side knowing exactly what they want and willing to fight for it can and will do with the old-fashioned remaining democracies not too sure of themselves and not inclined to fight for anything.

Flying in Rain

Two army fliers a captain and a corporal, were burned to death when their bombing plane crashed in a heavy rainstorm.

In actual war pilots must fly in any kind of weather but you wonder whether it is wise in peace time to send planes up in dangerously bad weather. Charles Kettering chief engineer of General Motors said "If men would only fly when birds fly there would be fewer accidents. Birds do not fly at night in rain fog or in dangerously high winds." Mr Kettering who was one of the first men to fly his plane blind everything closed relying on instruments only, knows a good deal about flying.

It may be however that army pilots must risk dangerous flying now to be ready if war should come.

Another Milton

Berlin reports that German booksellers must sell and Germans must read only books that the government thinks they ought to sell and read. The public will be compelled with loving force to read what is good for them.

That takes Germany back to the seventeenth century, when the English government decided that Englishmen must read only what the government thought was good for them.

All books must be submitted and wait for approval before printing. Along came a man named John Milton with his book the Areopagitica printed by him without anybody's permission, denouncing an infamous law that would control men's minds and freedom of thought. That settled it the law died.

Somebody will kill it in Germany in time.

Great-Grandfather Rule

Atavism from the Latin atavus meaning "grandfather" referring to our inherited peculiarities controls us often.

James Craig 71 who loves his sailing boat the "Ailsa Craig" sank the craft that no one else might own and maltreat it. Mr Craig's grandfather many times removed may have had his favorite horse buried with him that others might not get it also that it might accompany him on his long journey. Farther back other grandfathers would have favorite wives slave girls and warriors slaughtered and thrown into the grave to keep them company.

Our lives are shadowy representation of our ancestors' activities. The man who walks through briars all day to shoot a 10-cent rabbit or sits on the bank ten hours to catch 2 cents' worth of fish imitates ancestors that had to get rabbit or fish or starve.

Yes—The Economy of Gas Heat Surprised Us, Too
Thousands of families have installed gas heating equipment in their homes this fall. But many families are still undecided on making the change. Of course, they want the clean, carefree heat of even temperatures, such as only gas heat can give them. Possibly, like yourself, they want an idea of the cost.
Before making your decision, let a heating engineer from The Gas Company make a survey of your home. He will discuss frankly the reasonable cost of changing your heating plant into a modern gas-fired unit. He will make an authentic estimate of the cost of heating your home with gas. New Deal In Retreat

THIS is the final week of the three sided election battle of 1936. It is impossible to see how the new deal fighting two strong opponents can win. The Literary Digest poll praised by Jim Farley in 1932 as a reliable indicator of public opinion shows Mr. Roosevelt in retreat.

The new deal is facing the new and strong Republican party which Gov. Landon's vigorous leadership and sound principles have revitalized. On both sides and in the rear the Roosevelt bloc is being harried by major Democratic leaders whom it betrayed in 1932. Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic party's presidential candidate in 1928, John W. Davis, the candidate in 1924, Bainbridge Colby, President Wilson's secretary of state, James A. Reed, former Democratic senator from Missouri, Joseph Ely, former Democratic governor of Massachusetts, Lewis W. Douglas, former budget director who resigned in protest against the new deal's dangerous financial practices, William H. Murray, former Democratic governor of Oklahoma—names like these make a formidable list. There is not a single Democratic statesman of prominence actively working in behalf of President Roosevelt's reelection. Nothing like this has happened since the party purged itself of Bryanism. Besides the leaders there are thousands of dissatisfied Democrats who will express their opposition in the voting booths Nov. 3.

The significance of the war between Democrats will be plainer in the next few years, but it is plain enough now. A party divided against itself can not stand. A powerful coalition has been fused out of popular disapproval of the principles and practices of the new deal—a coalition which has ranged itself under the Republican banner but whose proper standard is the American flag.

The things which have caused this coalition to develop may be veiled from the vision of Mr. Roosevelt and his friends, but one fact must be plain even to them. That is the firmness of the ground on which the opposition has taken its stand. There is nothing artificial or temporary about its position. It is fundamental. Even if Mr. Roosevelt should be reelected by some unforeseen circumstance he would have to destroy his opposition by main force or yield to it.

The final week of the campaign finds the new deal in retreat, routed by its failure to prove attractive to that great part of the population which is convinced the things which have been going on since March 1933 represent neither good intentions nor good government.

Slippery Figuring

It sounded pretty good when President Roosevelt said at Worcester, Mass., that his administration had reduced the individual income tax, that more than 99 per cent will pay less than they did in 1932 and that less than 1 per cent will pay more.

It sounded good because Mr. Roosevelt didn't mention that the new revenue act subjects dividends on stock to the normal tax of 1936, payable in 1937. About $90,000,000 is expected from this change, and much of it will come from the 99 per cent who are supposed to be getting a break. They will pay more, not less.

It sounded good, too, when Mr. Roosevelt said 98½ per cent of corporations would pay a smaller normal corporation tax under the new undistributed profits tax law. He forgot to mention that in addition to the normal tax they will pay the very tax he was talking about—the undistributed profits tax, and that the total will be greater than it was before. They will pay more, not less.

It sounded good when he said indirect taxes had been reduced to 38 cents from 58 cents since 1933, but the figures don't jibe with his own statement of Sept. 2, 1935, in a letter to Roy W. Howard that in 1929 consumers taxes represented only 30 per cent of the national revenue, and that today they are 60 per cent, and even with the passage of the recent tax bill the proportion of these consumers taxes will drop only 5 per cent. Mr. Roosevelt can't even agree with himself.

Can anything which he says pertaining to taxes be taken seriously in the face of so much evidence that slippery figuring is just one more policy of the new deal?

New Deal in North Carolina

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1936, by The Marion Star

Today's dispatch discusses the attitude of the people of North Carolina, the thirty-seventh state to be visited by David Lawrence in his personal survey of the political situation in 40 states.

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 27—Why investigate political sentiment in North Carolina this year? Its electoral vote isn't in doubt—the Roosevelt majority will not be as large as in 1932, but still an overwhelming lead.

I came to North Carolina to get the answer to a question that I have been curious about ever since I started on this personal survey of 40 states from coast to coast. I wanted to know something of the underlying reasons that make a state of the so-called conservative south accept the new deal at the polls by a preponderant vote.

I met with a group of representative men of the state, virtually all of them planning to cast their ballots next week for the reelection of Mr. Roosevelt. I sought to learn what the vote in North Carolina would mean. Would it be a mandate to Mr. Roosevelt in the event of his reelection to continue the new deal along the same lines as of the last three and a half years? Did it mean that the voters of North Carolina were giving Mr. Roosevelt a blank check for him to fill out after election? Did it imply in any way dissent from some of the new deal policies of the last three years and if so how strong was the protest?

Gratitude for President

I was assured that the dominant note in North Carolina sentiment is one of gratitude to the President. Cotton mills are humming. Tobacco growers are happy. Farm income is way up. Prices are good. Homes and farms have been saved from foreclosure, and altogether there is a sublime faith in the humanitarianism, liberalism and capacity of Mr. Roosevelt to continue to assure the prosperity that seems here at least to be attributed to the hand of the government in general and Mr. Roosevelt in particular.

I confess I felt the group I met a certain puzzlement. In North Carolina all seemed on the surface at least to be serene. There was no quiver of apprehension about the Constitution or a possible change in the form of government. There was no alarm about insurance policies being eaten up with high prices in an inflationary era. Indeed, no real concern about inflation beyond the relatively small group that interests itself in the statistics of fiscal affairs.

Yet in North Carolina they are debt conscious. They feel better here about their own state finances, having achieved not merely a balanced budget but a surplus of $5,000,000 in the treasury. A $10,000,000 income from sales taxes has been a godsend in helping the state take over a large part of county expense. There has been, moreover, a reduction in property taxes. North Carolinians have felt the sensation, incidentally, of having their state bonds go down as low as 70 in 1932 and rise in 1933 above par when the budget was balanced. So they ought to know something about the importance of having income and outgo balance in the federal treasury too.

I realize that fiscal matters are hard for the average man to follow except when they hurt credit or send prices sky-rocketing, but since neither of these things has happened as yet, there is a happy-go-lucky disposition to cross those bridges when they appear on the scene.

So I inquired whether the south and particularly a state like North Carolina, which is certainly far from backward and more in the category of the up-and-doing states, would swallow the new deal 100 per cent after election as it seemed to be doing by its attitude before election.

Protest Against New Deal

I encountered sharp differences of opinion on this point. I was told, for instance, that the protest against the new deal would this year be reflected by a sizeable Republican vote and by a diminished Roosevelt majority. I was given to understand also that the south would scrutinize with care any proposals to revive the NRA and put into the hands of the federal government again the power to regulate wages and hours.

But there were some who insisted that the south would not be found ultra-conservative or stubborn about meeting any changes in law or Constitution that might have to be made to secure national objectives. But even on a matter as abstract as this I could not find any concrete apprehension about the extremes to which new deal projects might go.

Indeed, so far as North Carolina is concerned, unless one digs beneath the surface and gets folks off to one side to penetrate their thinking, one is likely to acquire the impression that Dr. Tugwell, Henry Wallace and Harold Ickes, on the subject of Democratic faith, are the true descendants of the eminent men in North Carolina history who once fought for states rights.

One thing has been drilled into the minds of the political rank and file in this state and that's party regularity. Whether one agrees with the new deal or not, it is essential in North Carolina that the Democratic party be followed almost blindly lest damage ensue. Thus in 1928 a number of Democrats deserted the party when Al Smith was the nominee, but they were promptly ostracized. Today even the business men who may secretly harbor a fondness for Governor Landon and may even vote that way should hardly shout it from the house tops. They want to retain their influence within the Democratic party on account of questions that arise in the state legislature, questions of business regulation and taxation that might easily find them the victims of studied indifference or refusal were they to abandon their allegiance to the dominant party in North Carolina.

Convention Action Hurts

Some day all this may be changed and men may fight for their party and principles openly and with full recognition of the risks involved. In fact, even today North Carolina shows rumblings underneath that do not augur well for the future of the new deal party. The abrogation of the two-thirds rule at the Philadelphia convention has not been accepted with any degree of enthusiasm, since it means the squelching of the power of the south to veto a choice for presidential nomination as heretofore.

I feel confident that North Carolina may be voting for Mr. Roosevelt out of a sense of gratitude, but it is certainly not giving him a blank check for the future. It will reserve the right through its spokesmen to question the wisdom of new deal philosophy when it borders on centralization or when excessive expenditures threaten the credit of the government or the integrity of the dollar's purchasing power.

There is a strong undercurrent of protest which will demand retrenchment in the federal budget.

Outwardly North Carolina is going along with the President because of a faith that somehow he will manage to steer the country through its future crises as successfully as in this section he is believed to have done in past crises. So the viewpoint is one of retrospection without much worry about the future. And if the new deal departs from fundamental conservatism too abruptly or too widely, there will be a protest amounting to revolt on specific measures. Not all the electoral votes therefore that are to be cast for Mr. Roosevelt on November 3 constitute a blank check mandate. North Carolina expects to have something to say about how the check will be filled out if Mr. Roosevelt is re-elected.

A Few "Beauties"

The Detroit Free Press summarizes what it terms some of the "lovely" features of the so-called social security act.

THE LAW inflicts the heaviest income tax ever imposed on the working people of a free country.

Money taken from them directly and indirectly will increase their living costs at least 9 per cent in one way or another.

When they contribute their direct share workers will not be permitted to do so individually by going to a tax office as citizens generally do. The money will be taken from their pay and they will never see it. The amounts taken will be far beyond anything necessary in view of the anticipated returns.

Generally it would be cheaper for social security taxpayers to use their money in purchase of old line insurance from private companies. They would pay less and get more for what they put in. In addition they would get contracts that would stand up in court.

But they are not allowed to do this. They no longer can invest their savings as they think best; they must do as the government says hereafter.

They will be permitted to take out private insurance if they can find surplus money for it, but not until Washington gets its cut, and for what Washington takes the worker will not get even a receipt.

There is a sort of promise to pay certain amounts if the government does not change its mind meanwhile, but no congress can bind a future congress. The statute says the right to alter, amend or repeal any provision of the act is reserved to congress. So congress can increase the tax, decrease the benefits or throw over the whole scheme.

It can exclude people who have paid from getting benefits, or it can make beneficiaries of people who have not paid, or it can divert money collected to other purposes.

It can declare an emergency and take social security funds for general expenditures or to create a political slush fund, or to meet a war debt and leave contributors holding the bag.

The only thing certain under the act is that the government will collect the money it wants to get. Forty-seven billion dollars—that is the nest egg to be accumulated first of all. Practically all of this will come from the pay of workers who can not spare it.

That isn't all, furthermore. The government must invest the money it collects in its own securities. It can print new bonds to sell in this way if it wants to.

It can put the whole 47 billion into these bonds. They will be pretty, but their worth will be highly questionable. Then since the government will be both buyer and seller it can use the real money it has accumulated for whatever it pleases, leaving its IOU as security.

To meet the tax you will pay—heavily—entirely aside from the bite taken out of your paycheck by the employer acting on the government's order, higher prices for everything you buy. It may be schoolbooks for the children, medicine, food, clothing, furniture or a new hat. Higher costs of production will mean higher prices.

Capitalists

By GUS W. DYER
Professor of Economics and Sociology, Vanderbilt University

TO THE average person the so-called capitalistic system means that American industry is owned and operated by a relatively small number of rich men. The theory is that these rich men own and direct the capital and the great masses of the people work for the capitalists. Hence the fight against the capitalistic system directed by the radicals in our country today is represented as a fight of the great masses of the people who own no capital against the small group of rich people who constitute the capitalistic class.

There is absolutely no foundation for this theory. No such condition exists in this country and no such condition could exist under our Constitution.

Under modern conditions a very large amount of capital is essential to any sort of efficiency in business. Hence any and all systems of industry that are in any sense successful must have a large supply of capital. All systems must be capitalistic in this sense. To make a tirade against a system of industry because large capital is employed is to exhibit very stupid ignorance.

The real question at issue is who shall own and direct the capital invested in industry. The American system of industry is based on the theory that the greatest industrial progress and the best general welfare are achieved under privately owned and privately directed capital. The theory of the communists, socialists and other radicals in this country who prefer to operate under other names is that the capital in industry should be owned by the government and directed by political groups.

The capital invested in American industry is not owned by a small group of rich men. There is no capitalist class in this country. Rich men own only a very small proportion of the capital invested in industry. A very large proportion of the capital in American business is owned by millions of people of moderate incomes and a large proportion of the capital fund is owned by relatively poor people. Perhaps more than three-fourths of the adult population of the country are capitalists and millions of children are capitalists.

Every person who has a small savings account is a capitalist. Every holder of an insurance policy is a capitalist. The interest that is paid the depositor and the superior advantages given to policy holders are really dividends from their capital invested in American business.

To destroy the so-called capitalistic system means to transfer the capital from private ownership to government ownership. Since the government has no money of its own the most feasible way to make this transfer would be to do as the Russians did: confiscate all private capital and let political groups direct it.

The Roosevelt Record

12—The Air Mail Tragedy.

> "No one can rightfully object to drastic action being taken provided the guilt implied is first established, but it is the right of any American individual or organization to receive fair trial. Your present action does not discriminate between innocence and guilt and places no premium on honest business."—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, Feb. 11, 1934.

NOTHING better illustrates one side of Mr. Roosevelt's nature than his handling of the air mail fiasco.

On Feb. 9, 1934, Mr. Roosevelt without any warning announced that effective 10 days later all the contracts made with all the air mail lines for carrying the mails would be canceled. The President justified this arbitrary action on the ground that the senate committee investigating ocean and air mail contracts had discovered sufficient evidence to show fraud and collusion in the original awards of the contracts. No evidence was specified, however. No discrimination was made among the various companies. They were given no chance to prove their innocence. In fact all were judged and condemned in advance of trial.

But this was not all. Mr. Roosevelt announced that the army air planes would carry the mail. It was midwinter and the routes were unfamiliar to the army pilots. Their planes were inadequately equipped and unsuited for commercial flying. They lacked many of the devices which experience had proved requisite to the service of the air mail. Furthermore the army fliers had never had the peculiar training which is indispensable in following airways across mountains, valleys and deserts. But the President had ordered them to carry the mail and they carried it.

The country was shocked to read day after day of the death of young army aviators turned mail pilots. Criticism was at first directed against the army. But those in position to know realized that the army fliers were the victims of the President's impetuosity. Members high up in the army flying corps still tell of their sleepless vigil for days and nights awaiting word of new air crashes which they were certain were inevitable. They saw their best men sacrificed before their eyes—sacrificed so that a personal vengeance might be visited upon the aviation companies.

Twelve army fliers thus died. The President beat a hasty retreat. He canceled the order directing the army to carry the air mail. For a while the country had no air mail. At a later period the army was permitted to carry the mails on a restricted basis. Today the air mail is again being carried by the commercial companies.

In the meantime suits were filed against the government by several of the aviation companies. But no criminal charges were brought against any of those accused of obtaining air mail contracts through fraud or collusion, nor were any of the charges made during the senate investigation substantiated in the courts.

As if all of this were not enough, the administration gratuitously insulted Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh when he demanded a fair hearing for all. The President's secretary tried to brush his plea aside by charging that it was merely an attempt of Colonel Lindbergh to seek publicity. When the attempt to smear Lindbergh failed the President tried unsuccessfully to placate him.

The entire air mail scandal thus reflected on the administration rather than on the attacked aviation companies. This, however, is little consolation for the families of the army aviators who went to their deaths because the White House had stubbornly blundered.

New York Notes

O. O. McIntyre's Diary of Fact, Fancy and Folks.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Ethel Barrymore's decision to retire some time ago was not unexpected. For several years she has been harassed by many vicissitudes. Life for the once glamorous stage star became a rigamarole of sundry upsets. So much so the Rialto spoke of defeats as "Barrymore luck."

For a time she was rebellious and a bit indiscreet in accepting the inevitable forces of Time that presaged her professional eclipse. She tried to recapture her vanishing glory while crippled by an ill-starred tank tour which proved disheartening in many ways.

But today those who know say she has mellowed. An altogether different lady from the throaty, imperious figure so dramatized as the dominating integral of the Royal Family. The artifices of her calling dropped away, revealing her as folksy and humane.

She lives quietly and in neighborly fashion at Mamaroneck. Where once she faced the world like the haughty queen she has become housewifely, serene and even an occasional complacent rocker on the front porch. She realizes she has had her Big Hour and is content.

A fluttering lady whose name, a pseudonym I suppose, is Dorian Gray, writes me she is preparing an order for a book called "Celebrity Street" and wishes to include a vignette of me. She lists among her notion of celebrities Toscanini, Chaplin, Tallulah Bankhead, Anna Sten, Fannie Brice, Marlene Dietrich, Katharine Hepburn, Charles Laughton, Paderewski, Lily Pons, Mary Garden, Katharine Cornell, Beatrice Lillie, Major Bowes, Paul Whiteman and Jo Davidson.

All her candidates have attained a celebrity, I suppose—some not able and a few including myself only seeming to do so. However the lady will find many reactionaries to her list. A careful historian at a small dinner the other night observed that in his opinion America has produced but one figure in the last decade who would be generally known 100 years from now. His selection was Lindbergh. I do not agree, but the list will not include more than half a dozen.

The majority callous to hero worship after 40. They have seen too many clay feet. The flaming zeal of idolatry flares highest between 15 and 18. No idol to me has come within a mile of attaining the stature of the swaggering Mike Donlin belaying umpires, socking the apple over the garden wall and neatly fielding shoe lace dives. I was about 19 when he reigned. Life could have offered nothing more than to walk with him from the players' exit to his street car. And a big emotional pickup came years later when in the mail one morning I found a letter from Mike—a fan letter at that. And one which occupies a prominent place in my memory book.

I was also one of the big army of Della Fox worshippers. Night after night I sat moon-struck in the gallery while in lavender tights and smoking a cigaret she sang that babbling brook thing. My next stage crush was Flora Zabelle and I colored up like everything when someone told Zaz about it as I was talking to her one day.

I stopped at one of those free health exhibits on Broadway the other midnight. A Vandyked Hercules bared to the waist was flexing his muscles, heaving his chest and expounding his idea of "the more abundant life." The crowd was becoming chafily restless and drifting out until he boomed: "And now we come to problem of sex." Everybody halted and stuck around. The professor knew his Broadway!

In tenement areas of the 40s westward from Broadway where asphalt is the playground there come weekly innovations from monotony. One is the Victor Herbert looking pony man with his three saddled Shetlands for the penny a block rides. Also the horse drawn carrousel whirled crankwise by an aged charioteer. Their arrivals are gala days in the slums.

From a letter: "As chairman of a bridge party for doctors' wives we had George Ade as a guest. He was in rare form. As a preface to one yarn he ventured casually: 'You read McIntyre?' One of the ladies leaned forward and beamed: 'Oh, religiously.' Mr. Ade shook his head rather sadly and replied: 'My heavens, that is no way to read him.'"

REV. HEININGER ASSUMES CHURCH PASTORATE HERE

Retired Minister Returns to Active Duty To Take Place Left Vacant by Death of Rev. Davis.

Rev. John Wesley Heininger of Cleveland, former pastor of Calvary Evangelical church and a former superintendent of the old Columbus district of the Ohio Evangelical conference, today returned to Calvary church to assume the duties of pastor, succeeding the late Rev. William M. Davis whose death occurred Oct. 13.

Rev. Heininger's first pastorate at Calvary was brief. At the end of a period of three months in the fall of 1919 he was called to serve as general secretary of the Forward Movement in the Evangelical denomination. When he left Calvary church it was to have been for a period of a year, but the Forward Movement work lengthened into 11 years of service, eight years of which were devoted to full-time administration duties.

Was Superintendent

Rev. Heininger, the only man in the Ohio conference known to have resigned from a district office, made his reputation when he was living in Marion and serving as superintendent of the Columbus district, now the southern district. He was appointed superintendent in 1910 and moved to Marion, staying two years and resigning to take the pastorate of the Calvary church in Cleveland, one of the most important churches in the Ohio conference. Prior to 1910 he served four years as superintendent of the district which included Tiffin, where he made his home.

Last August Rev. Heininger retired from the active ministry after 45 years of service, and at the time members of his family predicted that within three months he would be back in the work to which his life is dedicated. Since August, two months ago, he has filled appointments every Sunday including sermons at Calvary church here on Oct. 18, and today he assumed another pastorate, fulfilling his family's prediction.

Rev. Heininger has given most of his years in the ministry to work in Columbus, Tiffin, Akron and Cleveland. When he resigned from the ministry it was after serving two years as pastor of the Emmanuel Evangelical church in Lorain.

A pamphlet on Christian stewardship written by Rev. Heininger, "The Senior Partner, or, A Tale of Two Fence Corners," has been circulated throughout the Ohio conference.

North Central Graduate

Rev. Heininger is a graduate of North Central college at Naperville, Ill., taking his preparatory work at the old Green Springs academy which was at one time associated with Western Reserve university. His first pastorate was in Ashland and Wayne counties, when he and another minister served six churches.

Mrs. Heininger will join her husband in the near future. They have three children, Harold R. Heininger who is a professor in the department of systematic theology at North Central college, Robert M. Heininger who is director of the Farnam Community House, a social settlement in New Haven, Conn., and Mrs. Ruth Nelson who is in charge of the sewing center department of the Associated Charities in Cleveland.

FATE OF STADIUM PROJECT UNDECIDED

WPA Workers Continue at Lincoln Park Although Financing Hits Snag.

While a crew of WPA employes today continued work in connection with construction of a new concrete stadium at Lincoln park the status of the project remained in question.

Softball commission members this morning reported they had received no information concerning a $1,000 pledge said to have been made earlier this year by the county commissioners and later declared void. City officials, however, repeated the assertion that the city would keep its agreement with the softball commission to furnish approximately $1,500 worth of materials.

The contributions expected from the city and county are absolutely necessary to continue the project, softball commissioners said.

The project will be continued for several days in the hope that difficulties arising over raising the sponsor's share of the proposed $20,000 stadium will be ironed out WPA official said. They asserted however, that once the project is dropped, it is very unlikely that it would be revived.

Actual construction of the stadium could get under way this week if the difficulties are settled, WPA officials said. The frame grandstand at the park has been razed by WPA workers and the groundwork is far enough along that the first concrete could be poured, the officials reported.

Bus Company Acts To Cut Children's Fare Charge

Ray Maag Proposes To Sell Six Tokens for 15 Cents for Juvenile Riders.

Application to revise city bus fares for children so that the present three-cent rate could be cut to two and one-half cents by the purchase of six tokens for 15 cents was presented to city council last night by Marion Rapid Transit, Inc.

At the same time, the company asked that the cost of single fares for children be increased to five cents instead of remaining at three cents.

Proposals both for selling six tokens for 15 cents and one token for five cents were made, Ray Maag, manager, explained, to eliminate making change in pennies for children's fares. The handling of the three-cent fares and making change delayed drivers so much that at times they were unable to keep their schedules he said.

The application, presented in the form of a letter signd by Mr. Maag, was referred to the franchise and ordinance committee of council for study.

Will Increase Service

At the same time, Mr. Maag announced plans to increase service on the Center and Davids street run beginning Nov. 1 by increasing the frequency of trips from every half hour to every 20 minutes.

Mr. Maag said one bus now makes half-hour round trip runs on that route but traffic congestion on the route is making it difficult to maintain service with only one bus. When the 20-minute service is begun, two busses will be used, he said.

Other matters before council last night included an application of the Ohio Associated Telephone Co. for authority to install and maintain underground cables and a proposal submitted by City Solicitor R. E. Carhart to pay salaries of elective officials in full for 1936. Both of these, along with a proposal that the city pay from $2,000 to $3,000 to the New York Central railway for construction of a sewer line through the company's right of way, were voted down by council.

The telephone company's request, it was explained, was presented in connection with the company's plans to convert its six per cent bonds to four and one-half per cent bonds and is not sought for any contemplated program of putting additional wires underground.

Councilman Hayne Rogers of the franchise and ordinance committee said the committee had studied the company's request and that he favored it excepting he thought it should provide for a bond in which the company assures the city it will restore the streets and alleys after installing underground conduits. Councilman Welcome Cass opposed the company's request, asserting he felt the city should negotiate with the company for a franchise before granting the request. The company now has no municipal franchise.

Vote Is Six to Three

When submitted to a vote, the request was voted down by a six to three vote. Councilmen Fabian, Williams and Hart favored it and Councilmen Cass, Biggert, Stief, Rogers, Cahill and Shuster voted against it.

The vote was identical on the salary restoration proposal submitted to council by Solicitor Carhart. The proposal to pay 100 per cent salaries to elective officials met criticism from Councilman Stief, chairman of the finance committee. He said any plan to pay full salaries to elective officials should be broadened to include city employes such as firemen and policemen.

Councilmen voted unanimously against the proposed construction of a Clinton street sewer under five tracks of the New York Central railroad just east of the packing plant when City Engineer T. S. Cathers said the railroad might charge as much as $3,000 to prop up its tracks while WPA workers laid the sewer line under the right of way. The question came to council in the form of a resolution authorizing the service director to sign an agreement with the railroad for laying the sewer under the right of way.

Lecture - Recital Club Presents Second Program

AN EVENING of voice and piano music entertained members and patrons of the Marion Lecture-Recital club in the second program of the organization's autumn and winter series last night at Hotel Harding

The club had as a guest soloist Harold Bradt baritone and the occasion marked the first ensemble appearances of a piano quartette and a voice trio made up of members of the club. Completing the program was Miss Grace Cooper who played a piano solo

The piano ensemble was made up of Mrs Beaver Bricker Miss Mary Heininger Miss Juanita Owings and Miss Elizabeth Pace and the voice trio includes Mrs Clara Campbell Mrs Florence Acker and Mrs Eve Hunter

If there was any criticism of the program it was that those taking part did not sing or play long enough and despite the rather prolonged applause they did not return for encores. Adding to the enjoyment of the voice numbers was the splendid support of the accompanists Mrs Robert Newton Clark who accompanied the voice trio and Robert Dellinger who played for Mr Brandt's numbers

The piano ensemble opened and closed the program They chose for their first selection Engleman's Valse Caprice which they played with interpretive richness and technique and for their second number they played the colorful Hungary by Koelling

Mr Bradt sang one group made up of The Sword of Ferrara Bullard Melody Out of My Heart Setchell The Green Cathedral Hahn and The Hills of Home Oscar Fox All provided an interesting portrayal of his voice range and tonal qualities and if the audience liked one better than the other it was The Hills of Home which was vivid both in words and shading

Miss Cooper chose the brilliant and scintillating Liszt number Tarantella in which she gave a splendid account of her work as a pianist

The trio whose voices blend in tuneful harmony chose three simple melodies for their part of the program They sang Where Dawn and Sunset Meet by Lieurance Sleepy Hollow Tune Kountz and Come Down Laughing Streamlet Spross

Mrs Glen Penry announced the final tryouts for the operetta to be given early in the spring as a number on the lecture course program Nov 6 Members of the club board will meet for a luncheon and business session Wednesday at Hotel Harding

The Wrong Murderer

By HUGH CLEVELY

[illegible]

[illegible] it would give [illegible] pleasure to do that he [illegible] But I don't [illegible] and I'll tell you [illegible] if you kill me tonight you'll [illegible] see [illegible] ever again Al[illegible] soon [illegible] I'm dead certain [illegible] will be forthcoming [illegible] and give the whole game [illegible] so far as your late friend [illegible] Ross is concerned And [illegible] If I'm killed tonight [illegible] arranged that the police will [illegible] absolutely damning evidence [illegible] kill old Little

[illegible] demanded [illegible]

[illegible] grinned His expression [illegible] absolutely satanic

[illegible] evidence against Ross is in [illegible] handwriting It shows quite [illegible] that he was engaged with [illegible] in my criminal activities he [illegible] My evidence against you is [illegible] handwriting To be exact it [illegible] the form of a diary

[illegible] I relate how Ross intro[illegible] to me as a promising [illegible] organization how we [illegible] over a question of [illegible] instead of kid[illegible] Mr Little properly as we [illegible] you double-crossed me [illegible] back to her own [illegible]

[illegible] recognized you [illegible] had to kill him to get [illegible] that the entries are [illegible] I simply relate your [illegible] efforts to fight me and my [illegible] to fight me and my efforts [illegible] you—quite a simple story [illegible] criminals falling out among themselves

Naturally when the people find [illegible] I know that I was [illegible] power behind all the dope and blackmailing activity, but that won't worry me if I'm dead They'll also be quite sure that you are a crook and a murderer It would be amusing wouldn't it, if you were to kill me, and then be hanged for killing old Little?"

"Terribly amusing," agreed Mahony impassively "But diary or no diary, I'm going to kill you tonight unless Ruth Fraser is restored to me safe and unhurt"

Lawson shrugged his shoulders slightly

"I'm not particularly anxious to die tonight," he admitted "In the circumstances I suggest that we should strike a bargain You let me go and I'll have Miss Fraser brought to you here After all, it will only be a matter of time before I have my hands on her and you, again"

Mahony had never underrated Lawson's courage, he had anticipated that some such bargain would have to be struck between them

"You have Miss Fraser brought to me here and I'll let you go" he agreed "You can go after she's safely here"

"It seems that you don't trust me," remarked Lawson in a tone of ironic surprise "But you expect me to trust you Well I'll take your word for it that when Miss Fraser is safe here you'll let me go I shall have no telephone"

"You can telephone but don't try any funny business" Mahony warned him "If a car-load of your toughs turn up here instead of Miss Fraser, you'll be the first person to go west"

"If a car-load of 'is toughs comes along, they're likely to get more than they bargain for" put in Bassett "I've got about a dozen blokes angling about this garage and them as ain't got guns as got blackjacks You don't need to worry about no car load of toughs turning up Mister"

"That's all right then" said Mahony "Here you are"

He held the telephone close to Lawson so that he could speak Lawson called a number, and when he was in touch with the man he wanted, he gave a few curt directions in German Then he turned to Mahony

"What is the address of this place?" he asked

"Whitcher's garage, Dale Street Canning Town" answered Mahony

Lawson repeated this address through the telephone and nodded as a sign that the conversation was ended

"She's being brought here at once one man is bringing her in a car" he said

"That will be all right" said Mahony

Twenty minutes passed then there came the sound of a car Mahony went to the door of his drawing up outside—the garage office and looked out. From the car descended a man and a girl In the light that shone through the office doorway he had no difficulty in recognizing Ruth

He went forward quickly to meet her At that moment he was only conscious of one thing—a feeling of tremendous relief and thankfulness that she was saved

"Ruth!" he exclaimed

She stopped, looked at him for a moment, gave a little gasp of astonishment Her face looked pale and tired and there were dark lines beneath her eyes But at the sound of Mahony's voice her face seemed to light up, her drooping figure straightened For a moment she stared at him then, with a little exclamation of happiness she stepped forward quickly holding out both her hands

"Oh, Terence it is you, isn't it? Terence I knew you'd help me I didn't see how you could, but I knew you would somehow Terence.. !"

He took both her hands in his and pressed them hard The sight of her pale, tired face, in contrast with the happiness shining in her eyes, the accents of complete and utter trust in him in her voice, affected him strangely At that moment he had no thought for Elsa Little or anybody except Ruth.

Deep in his heart he knew that, though he might search the whole world, he could never find anybody else who would stand by him more loyally, trust him more completely, be a better friend and companion for him than she would. Nothing mattered just then except that she was safely with him again

As if it were the most natural action in the world he drew her close, put one arm around her, and held her close to him. She sighed and let her head rest for a moment on his shoulder.

"I'm so tired and so glad to be with you again," she said

"I'm glad, too," said Mahony

There were dozens of things that he wanted to say, but he could find no words to say them There was no need to say them. The grip of his arm encircling her, the expression in his eyes as they looked down into hers, were all she wanted at that moment." She smiled

"I'm in an awful mess" she said happily "Most likely the police are after me—I expect you know all about that But I don't care. I don't mind what happens now"

"All this is very pretty and touching but, if you remember, you promised to let me go when Miss Fraser was restored to you" came Lawson's cold sneering voice from the office behind them "At the risk of interrupting this charming scene may I ask you to keep your promise"

His words brought Mahony down to earth with a sudden jerk reminding him of the position in which he and Ruth were placed True, they were together again, but their outlook could hardly be called bright. Every policeman in London was on the lookout for Ruth while he himself was by no means cleared of suspicion in the murder of Mr Little

For the moment he ignored Lawson's interruption and spoke to Ruth, he spoke with a deliberate purpose meaning Lawson to hear

Lawson gets a painful kick in an appropriate place, tomorrow

Semi-Annual Settlement Of Tax Funds Made Here

County Auditor Divides $493,753 Among Various Subdivisions; Delinquencies Cut $100,000.

County Auditor Harry V. Mounts [illegible] his task of [illegible] was [illegible] in realty [illegible] for the last half of [illegible] and $2,[illegible] in inheritance [illegible] the various divisions of [illegible]. He was assisted by [illegible], tax deputy.

The real estate tax moneys were collected in the office of County Treasurer Homer [illegible] Cole during the period recently closed and the [illegible] distribution was approved [illegible] by State Auditor Joseph T. Tracy.

The amount [illegible] for the [illegible] half of [illegible] was $535,702.52, [illegible] last half collec[illegible] of $1,029,456.58 [illegible]. The total charge for the year [illegible] was $1,691,451.57. [illegible] which were charged off [illegible] accounts of tax payers who paid up taxes in full before Dec. [illegible] amounted to [illegible] $1,654,752.70 as the charge for 1935 taxes.

Delinquency Reduced

The present tax delinquency for the county, obtained by subtracting the total collection for the [illegible] from the charge for year is $[illegible]. This is a reduction of approximately $100,000 over the total delinquency at the beginning of the year, according to Miss Eibling. Some of the delinquencies date back over a period of years.

Before actual distribution of the subtracted auditor's and treasurer's $493,753.76 was made, the auditor fees for the general fund amounting to $6,382.90, and $369.01 which will go to the state bureau of inspection at Columbus. This left $486,992.43 for the various subdivisions of the county.

The shares of this amount are: $79,902.97 for the county; $13,470.77 for the townships; $217,852.91 for the schools; $120,312.14 for Marion city and the villages; $17,348.80 for pikes and ditches; $9,458.48 for highways and roads; and $28,646.46 for municipal assessments, pavings, sidewalks and sewers.

Deductions from these shares were as follows: $312.63 off the city and $398.48 off the schools and $124.73 off the county and small amounts off the townships for housing relief clients; an additional $2,559.41 was taken from the townships for the support of the county board of health.

For the first time in more than 15 years, Miss Eibling said, it was not necessary to make deductions for the support of the county board of education, which has a sufficient balance to operate for the coming year without further funds.

Share of City

The city of Marion received a check for $101,620.84, but this did not represent its entire share. An advance of $38,100 was made earlier this year and three deductions were made $851.50 for the special election Sept. 4, $798.79 for examinations of city offices and $2,231.56 for taxes (for special assessments), which brought the entire total share for the city to $143,602.69.

This includes $114,759.65 for regular real estate tax levy, $912.58 for inheritance tax, $593.94 for depository interest and $27,426.52 for pavings, streets and sidewalks.

The city will distribute the check it received today as follows: $13,948.25 for the general fund; $2,840.27 for the police pension fund; $1,807.44 for the firemen's pension fund, and $83,024.88 for the bond retirement fund.

The Marion city schools were alloted $98,416.69, but have already received an advance of $45,000, so their total share of the realty tax collection is $143,416.69.

Shares for the townships and villages of the county, after deductions for the county board of health and housing relief clients and examination of their books by the state, are:

Caledonia village, $2,496.46; Green Camp village; $610.90; LaRue village, $606.47; Agosta, $114.51; Prospect, $964.23; Morral, $650.23; Waldo, $539.82; Big Island township, $1,462.06; Bowling Green township, $1,675.33; Claridon township, $2,619.70; Grand township, $1,472.55; Grand Prairie township, $526.75; Green Camp township, $664.05; Montgomery township, $652.55; Pleasant township, $1,138.67; Prospect township, $557.28; Richland township, $2,065.62; Salt Rock township, $2,759.40; Scott township, $606.97; Tully township, $2,443.76; and Waldo township, $648.55.

Shares of Schools

School districts received, after deductions for tuition and advances:

Caledonia, $2,108.34; Claridon, $4,157.32; Grand Prairie, $5,318.96; Green Camp village, $2,515.82; LaRue, $2,298.97; Marion township, $10,441.82; Montgomery, $599.08; Morral village, $1,810.05; Agosta, $2,101.04; Pleasant, $4,332.94; Prospect village, $4,934.72; Scott, $2,383.31; Tully, $3,935.07; Waldo village, $2,035.67.

For tuition of children from Grand township in the Marseilles village schools, the treasurer of Wyandot county received $201.28; the school district of Cardington in Morrow county received $1,616.85 for tuition for Richland township children; and the Marlboro township school district in Delaware county received $203.89 for children of Waldo township.

Inheritance tax collections for the six months ended Oct. 15 totalled $2,461.34. Of this $1,230.67 was distributed to the local taxing districts, $815.22 to the state, $73.84 to the county auditor, $317 for probate court fees, $24.61 for the county treasurer. The local districts shared as follows: Marion city, $912.58; Bowling Green township, $19.85; Claridon township, $296; Grand township, $.92; Hale township in Hardin county, $1.32.

Married Comrades

BY ADELE GARRISON

Lillian Goes To Explain Situation To Katie as Madge Retires.

"I CAN force myself to stop worrying about what Allen Drake may do," I told Lillian speciously, "but I can't go directly to bed. I must tell Miss Whitlock what she must be prepared to do tomorrow."

"Why can't I tell her?" Lillian countered, then, with a quick look at me, capitulated unconditionally. I fancy she thought action of any sort would be the best possible potion for my frayed nerves.

"No, you're right, you'll have to deal with her yourself," she said. But, if you have any messages for our beloved Katie, I may deliver them, may I not?"

"Katie?" I repeated, "Won't she be asleep? I thought she went to bed."

"You have two, perhaps three things coming," she said, smiling. "Don't you remember that I promised I would tell Katie 'what all the shootin's fer'?"

"And she's waiting up to hear the story?" I queried.

Katie Is Waiting

"With her ears pinned back and her hair in a braid," Lillian answered. "Our Katie is waiting in the kitchen while her faithful spouse is doing sentry-go around the house. I'm going directly to her to tell her what Allen told us, which, incidentally, if you considered his conversation carefully, won't burden her ears with any important revelations, or any irrelevant detail."

"You noticed, too?" I asked. Lillian answered with a grin.

"That the dear boy was secretly resentful of feminine interference with his slightest suggestion, and, that my innocuous promise to tell Katie only what she probably knows or guesses had the effect of shutting him up like a clam. Of course, the revelation of the men in the shack gave him a plausible excuse for breaking his yarn off short, but depend upon it, he did not intend to spill any more dope than was absolutely necessary."

"That's what I surmised," I said. Then I squared my shoulders and looked steadily at Lillian.

Reveals Her Feelings

"Get it off your chest," she said with a grin before I could speak.

"I'm going to," I said [illegible]. "It's simply that I detest Allen Drake and all his little ways. Is all the world wasn't there some one except him who could have [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] len is the closest man to your father in all the service. His height and weight, his facial characteristics make his impersonation plausible. And, Allen's talent for that sort of thing is something uncanny.

[illegible]

Have To Bear It

"No, my dear, much as you dislike this job, and much as I sympathize with you, the only word I can give you is that you must grin and bear it. Now what shall I tell Katie? You're going to bed in the next 10 minutes, if I have to hog-tie you and slip a chloroform cone over your face. And don't think I wouldn't be capable of it, either."

"I wouldn't put anything past you," I told her. "And I promise you I'll be in bed inside of 10 minutes. Just tell Katie that she is to send Mr. Drake's breakfast up to his room tomorrow morning about 9 o'clock. And tell her about the balcony scene that's going to be staged. She's entitled to hear about that beforehand."

"I'll say she is," Lillian retorted. Then, as she moved toward the door, she shot a sudden sly glance at me.

"My chapeau if off to you, Machiavellians," she said meaningly. "But it's a kind of mean revenge to take."

LIMA FIRM GIVEN LOCOMOTIVE ORDER

By The Associated Press

LIMA, O., Oct. 27 — H. W. Snyder, works manager of the Lima Lomotive works, announced yesterday receipt of an order from the Kansas City Southern railway for 10 huge locomotives of the 2-10-4 type. He did not disclose the contract price.

The New Deal "Scarcity Program"

The New Deal "scarcity program)) retired from cultivation 33,000,000 acres of land in the United States thereby throwing out of employment the men required to cultivate this land and in addition those required to transport and process the crops and to build the machinery used in these operations. More than 2,500,000 Americans were thus thrown out of employment, who with their families constitute a population of more than 7,000,000 people.

This New Deal "Scarcity Program," combined with its tariff policies, has opened the American market to a flood of foreign agricultural products. It is estimated that 33,000,000 acres of land and 2,500,000 men would be required to produce the agricultural products now being imported into this country—33,000,000 acres planted in Canada, South America, China, and other foreign lands; 2,500,000 foreign workmen paid by American dollars to produce and process and transport these products.

The New Deal "Scarcity Program" has not only lost the American farmer his foreign market but he is forced to compete with the foreign farmer in the American market. The American laborer is forced to compete with the cheapest foreign labor, much of which receives as low as 90 cents a week. Immigration laws have been passed to keep out cheap foreign labor, but they are without value when the products of that same cheap labor compete with American products in our own markets. Speculators and gamblers reap a rich harvest in buying this cheap foreign produce and selling it in our American market.

Farmers and laborers, the scarcity program of Mr. Roosevelt does not give you a "more abundant life," instead, it lowers the American standard of living. In 1935, the year of "Roosevelt prosperity," this "scarcity program" reduced the amount of meat on the American table by 1,079,000,000 pounds as compared with that consumed in 1932. Only the speculator and the foreigner receive the "more abundant life," and we Americans pay the bill.

2,500,000 men thrown out of work; 7,500,000 persons put on relief and American factories idle. WAKE UP AMERICAN FARMERS AND LABORERS. OBSERVE THE DIRECTION IN WHICH WE ARE TRAVELING! VOTE TO PROTECT OUR HOME MARKETS AND TO PRESERVE OUR HIGH STANDARD OF LIVING!

Harding To Play Last Home Grid Game Friday Nigh

SHELBY COMING FOR N. C. O. LEAGUE TILT; RESERVES ALSO MEET

Edison and Central Junior High Squads To Clash in Thursday Contest.

Harding High's Presidents and the reserve team will make their last home appearance and Edison and Central will vie for junior high honors in games on Marion's grid schedule this week.

The Presidents and junior varsity teams of Harding High will oppose elevens from Shelby High school in games to be played under the floodlights Friday night. Edison and Central Junior High school will face each other in a crucial contest for city honors Thursday afternoon.

Coach Carl Cramer yesterday inaugurated a week of strenuous practice sessions for the varsity team in preparation for the North Central Ohio league game with the visiting Shelby Whippets. The varsity squad came through last week's game without a major injury of any sort and the Cramer men should be at top strength for this week's contest.

Barring practice injuries Coach Cramer will be able to start the same line-up which took the field against Ashland last week.

The strength of the invading team may be measured by comparative scores. The Whippets were defeated by Ashland 12 to 0 and lost to Mansfield last week 33 to 0. Harding was defeated last week by Ashland 12 to 0 and early in the season fell before the Mansfield Tygers 57 to 0.

Other games resulted in Shelby's 7 to 0 defeat at the hands of Norwalk, a 13-13 tie with Willard and a 20 to 0 defeat by Mt. Vernon. Shelby has failed to score a victory over an N. C. O. opponent and the scrap here Friday night will mean much in keeping Harding within the first division.

The reserves, tutored by Coach Bill Williams, have been idle since the 7 to 0 victory over Findlay here two weeks ago. The team however followed a long practice schedule last week and have a similar program in store for them this week. They will face the Shelby reserve team at 6:15 o'clock with the varsity conflict immediately following.

When Central and Edison Junior High teams take the field Thursday afternoon the city junior high school honors will be at stake. Neither of the two teams have been defeated and they previously battled each other to a 7-7 deadlock. Vernon Heights Junior High, which has already suffered three defeats, is practically eliminated from the race for honors.

In the opener Edison defeated Vernon 13 to 7, then Central battled Edison to the tie game. Central walked to a 28 to 0 victory over Vernon and last week Edison defeated Vernon 20 to 0. The junior high clubs will meet on the Harding gridiron with the game set for 4:15 o'clock.

Rockne's Son Grid Sensation

New laurels are accruing to the name of Rockne, one of the most distinguished in football annals, as Knute Rockne, Jr., above, son of the late Notre Dame coach, burns up the gridiron at Miami, Fla., military academy where he is preparing to enter Notre Dame next year.

Marietta Grid Ace Is Leading Buckeye Scorer

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 27.—A new drum major, Magee of Marietta, led the band of touchdown makers in Ohio's football circles today—the Pioneer fullback piling up a mark of 64 points in four contests.

Magee, who scored 18 points in eight games a year ago, has been stopped but once this year when he and his mates were downed 13 to 0 by Rutgers. Against Rio Grande Magee scored five touchdowns, came back for one against Capital and then romped over Otterbein for three last week-end.

Ray Zeh of Western Reserve, 1935 national scoring leader with 112 points, added two points after touchdown against Toledo to boost his total to 38 but he skidded to third place as a result of Magee's splurge against Otterbein.

An even three dozen Ohio gridders have scored 18 or more points during the campaign. Here they are:

With 18 points as the result of three touchdowns each are Mealy of Muskingum, Robinson of Ohio Northern, Glinn of John Carroll, Wagner of Miami, Snell of Xavier, Abdulla of Akron, Creel of Bluffton, Gosling of Cincinnati, Rauney of Kent State, Weis of Mt. Union, Hagaman of Ohio Wesleyan and Kelker and Bankert of Western Reserve.

Llewellyn of Miami also with 18 scored his on two touchdowns, a field goal and three points after touchdown.

32 OHIO COLLEGE GRID TEAMS SET TO SEE WEEK-END PLAY

List Headed by Ohio State-Notre Dame Contest at South Bend.

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 27—Ohio State's clash with Notre Dame at South Bend features the 19-game football program which sends 32 Buckeye teams into action next week-end, but several other frays are worthy of far more than passing mention.

All eyes will be on the Bucks as they seek to avenge last year's 18 to 13 defeat at the hands of the Irish, but the fans who do not accompany the Ohio team to the Indiana gridiron will find several games on the home lots demanding a glance or two.

Headlining the all home schedule is the clash between Western Reserve's six-time victorious Red Cats and the University of Dayton on the Gem City gridiron. Dayton has dropped three of its five games but has shown an ability to rise to the heights when the chips were down.

Saturday night the Flyers came from behind to hand Cincinnati a 21 to 13 defeat although the Bearcats were overwhelming favorites. At home the Reserve was forced to score late in the game to take a 14 to 0 win over Toledo.

Miami, alongside Western Reserve as the unbeaten untied contingent left of the 35 who started the season, meets Ohio Wesleyan in another picturesque fray. Wesleyan has dropped five in a row for the most disastrous season since George Gauthier took over the reins 15 years ago while Miami has won five.

The other Buckeye contest Saturday takes Cincinnati to Athens for a tilt with Ohio university, 1935 champion.

Nine games are slated in the Ohio conference in which Akron's Zippers are now tops. Baldwin Wallace and Case, both unbeaten in league play, tangle at Cleveland in one of the headliners which must send some of the clean slate teams crashing down among the also rans. Muskingum, leader up to Friday, fell before Akron which this week takes on the John Carroll club in Cleveland.

The other Ohio conference games are Friday night Ashland at Mount Union and Kent State at Findlay; Saturday Wittenberg at Denison, Kenyon at Oberlin, Wooster at Otterbein, Ohio Northern at Muskingum, Heidelberg at Capital.

Also scheduled are Friday night Wayne university at Toledo; Saturday Bowling Green at Hiram, Wilberforce at Tennessee State, Alfred Holbrook at Earlham, Marietta at Washington and Jefferson.

Dizzy Dean Is Troubled — But Not Worried

By The Associated Press

BRADENTON, Fla., 27.—Life is just a bowl of worries for Jerome Herman Dean, but he's gradually getting his affairs in hand, he confided today.

Chief problem that confronted the St. Louis Cardinals star right hander when he arrived here to spend the winter revolved around his canary-colored convertible sedan. The problem was that Mrs. Dean wanted the car herself.

Ol' Diz solved that one by buying himself a light truck that he could bat around Bradenton in at nearly the same speed his big yellow car will go. Mrs. Dean didn't care about driving the truck, so Dizzy has that for his exclusive use.

Then there was a little matter about an income tax return. The government wanted more information than Dean gave about certain exemptions he claimed. A lawyer fixed that up.

But just when it looked like clear sailing Dizzy went up to Sarasota to play golf and found the sums at the end of the round were in the 90's instead of the lower 80's the way they used to be.

So he fixed that up by junking his old bag of clubs and buying himself a whole new outfit. He needed the truck then to carry them—there even were cleeks and baffles and tools like that.

Now there's only one worry left but one's on Branch Rickey, his boss—Dizzy says he's not going to Daytona Beach where the Cards train next spring. He's going to stay right here in Bradenton where he has a home—also canary colored.

Dan Cady Floors LaCrosse in Shovel Gym Mat Tilt

Dan Cady, 178-pound Bostonian, waded to the top of last night's battle royal and then floored Gil LaCrosse two falls out of three in the final feature bout on the wrestling program at the Marion Steam Shovel gymnasium. The Black Panther of Algeria, substituted for the Masked Terror, was number three in the elimination gang fight and went to a 45-minute draw with Marcel Livernois of Boston, both getting two falls.

The battle royal lasted 15 minutes and found six huskies, Dan Cady, Gil LaCrosse, Marcel Livernois, Black Panther, Speedy La Rance and Paul Bozzell, scrapping for honors in the opener. The capacity crowd roared its approval at the rough display of the men's sluggers as they [illegible] each other and saved a few extra punches for Referee Red Moon.

The Oklahoman, Paul Bozzell, was the first to be floored when he went down under a [illegible] cross to the jaw tossed by Speedy LaPance. LaPance was applying a body press when the remaining four grapplers piled on Bozzell [illegible] to leave little doubt that his shoulders were pinned. Bozzell apparently didn't [illegible] treatment at the hand of Marcel Livernois and [illegible] the ring as the scrap was resumed to tangle with the Bostonian.

It wasn't until the second set to was well under way that Referee Moon persuaded Bozzell to quit the ring. He dared his opponent from the ring and for a moment it appeared that the scrap would finish among the spectators with all but Cady pounding and pummeling each other at ringside. Livernois and LaCrosse worked on Speedy LaPance who was finally floored and pinned with everyone taking a hand in the fall.

With four combatants remaining, Cady paired with LaCrosse and Livernois with the Panther. While Cady and LaCrosse worked on each other the rough and tough Livernois applied a leg hold to force the Panther to concede the fall. Livernois scored the fall without an assist and the first three falls were each timed at four minutes.

LaCrosse and Livernois paired to face Cady in the final round of the battle royal. Both were pummelling the curly topped youngster when LaCrosse tossed a wild right which floored Livernois. LaCrosse then assisted Cady in pinning Livernois to complete the last round of the gang battle in three minutes.

The Black Panther and Livernois returned for the first 45-minute bout. Livernois resorting to gouging and choking early gained the disfavor of the crowd but nonetheless kept the Panther plenty busy at aggressive wrestling. Livernois applied the same leg hold he used on the Panther in the battle royal to gain the first fall in 17 minutes.

Livernois' try for a repeat of the hold in the second round failed and the Panther evened the score with a series of shoulder jolts and a body press for the fall at the end of four minutes. Only nine minutes remained when the battlers returned for the final fall and the crowd's favorite, the Black Panther, waded to the bell for a draw. Punch for punch the Panther adopted an aggressive style after being tired by his opponent's rough tactics.

Gil LaCrosse came back just as rough and tough as he left the Marion ring a few months ago but this time faced an opponent who could take it. Dan Cady was forced to give up in the first round when LaCrosse applied an arm stretch and then stomped none too gently on the palm of Cady's outstretched hand. The first round went 21 minutes.

It took Cady but 10 minutes to even the match. After being on the receiving end of a tough arm stretch and later a powerful hammerlock Cady came out to bounce off the ropes and pin his groggy opponent with a body press. Cady was in a tough spot in the final round as LaCrosse applied a hammerlock and shoulder bump but the youngster punted his opponent in the jaw and then whirled him around by his feet to use a press to take the deciding fall in six minutes.

MASKED MARVEL

This masked marvel is not someone in a Halloween disguise. It's Joe Whalen, Ohio Wesleyan quarterback, who must wear a mask this season to protect a broken cheekbone. The injury occurred early in the season and Joe was advised to lay off the game for a year but he insisted that he be allowed to play. Coach George Gauthier compromised by making the gridder wear this specially constructed protective device.

Good Business News Braces Market for Gains Ranging to Three Points.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK Oct 27—Bracing itself on further good business news the stock market rallied quietly today for gains of fractions to 3 or more points

Brokers found many of their customers still refusing to desert the sidelines pending outcome of the election New crises of markets abroad reflecting fears of Spanish war repercussions also was said to have been a retardent to trading sentiment

Bonds picked up with stocks but they were none too confident Commodities held to an uneven trend as did foreign currencies

Prominent on the advance were U S Steel Bethlehem Youngstown Sheet and Tube General Motors Chrysler Studebaker Consolidated Edison International Paper & Power preferred Anaconda Cerro De Pasco International Nickel Santa Fe New York Central Sears Roebuck Montgomery Ward Standard Oil of New Jersey Hollander & Son Paramount first preferred du Pont Allied Chemical Waukesha Motors American Can Kelvinator Texas Corp American Rolling Mill Westinghouse Western Union J I Case and U S Industrial Alcohol.

Another straw in the dividend wind was seen in the action of Sears Roebuck in declaring a $1 75 extra with the announcement that to avoid the surtax on undistributed profits the company found it necessary to pass on the major portion of its net to shareholders

The French franc at the beginning of foreign exchange transactions was off 00 1 16 of a cent at 4 65 cents and sterling was unchanged at $4 85⅞

In Ohio History

(From the J H Galbraith collection of Ohio histories written for The Associated Press)

COULD BE SEVERE

In midsummer 1863 when E W Robinson of Loudonville appeared in the western part of Holmes county enumerating the men of military age in preparation for the draft he was stoned and driven away by opponents of the war

A report of this was sent to Governor Tod with the statement that a force of 1,000 opponents of the draft had fortified themselves near the village of Napoleon The governor sent Col William Wallace of the 15th Ohio infantry with a force of 420 men to the scene of the trouble with an order of the obstructionists ordering them to peaceably disperse at once

However upon the approach of the soldiers the defenders of the fortification fired one volley at them and took to the woods and nothing was left of the armed resistance
